

MILLER PIPELINE CELEBRATES 50TH ANNIVERSARY

It was a day of pride.

And that pride spread throughout the Indianapolis corporate headquarters as Miller Pipeline Corporation celebrated “Fifty Years of Excellence” at an open house on June 26. About 250 employees (including representatives of the Mexico office), customers, suppliers and vendors looked on as Melinda Kennedy, a representative of Mayor Bart Peterson’s office, proclaimed this day as “Miller Pipeline Day.”

Brothers Don, Dale, Paul and Karl Miller shared their personal and professional lives with the attendees. A biographical/historical video of the Miller family and the birth and growth of Miller Pipeline was presented as well. The video showcased the family’s philosophy of honesty, hard work, trust and faith – qualities that trickled down into the way the Miller brothers conducted their business lives.

CEO Doug Banning presented and hung a picture of Miller Pipeline founder Don W. Miller in the company’s front lobby. Adding to this memorable day, Dr. Gene Sease, a representative from the late Gov. Frank O’Bannon’s office, honored Dale Miller with the Sagamore of the Wabash award, the highest distinction bestowed by an Indiana governor. Open house speakers included Chairman Dale R. Miller and Chairman Emeritis Don W. Miller.
